

The Tilburg School of Economics and Management of Tilburg University has a position available at the Department of Econometrics and Operations Research:

Associate Professor in Business Analytics and Operations Research

The associate professorship is a tenured position. Candidates in all areas of Business Analytics and Operations Research will be given consideration, but, in particular, the department seeks to increase its strength and teaching capacity in the area of supply chain analytics.

The successful candidate will be involved, among other things, in teaching in the Business Analytics and Operations Research Master's program, including supervision of projects at companies. Some affinity with external projects is therefore desirable. In addition, the candidate will be expected to contribute to the development of undergraduate and graduate courses in business analytics.

Tilburg University offers competitive European salaries. Moreover, researchers from outside the Netherlands can apply for tax-free allowance equal to 30% of their taxable salary. The University also offers a generous pension scheme. The School will provide assistance in finding suitable accommodation and in other relevant relocation issues.
